For these standard lots inquire of any real estate agent in the city or at the main office corner of Clinton and Berry streets, opposite the new government building. 19-tf

The Contents of Slender Purses, if Invested at the Store of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., Will Go as Far as Those of Fat Purses Invested Elsewhere.

Within a very few years we have won the undisputed lean in the Furniture and Carpet trade of Fort Wayne. We have accomplished this:

By Our Low Prices,
By Our Immense Stock,
By the Quality of Our Goods,
By Our System Of Fair Dealing,

The immense patronage we have enjoyed from towns adjacent to Fort Wayne has been a decided benefit to every branch of legitimate business; for customers induced to come to this city for Carpets or Furniture, have embraced the opportunity to lay in a supply of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, jewelry, &c. In this indirect way we trust we have been enabled to return something of the obligation we are under to the merchants of Fort Wayne for the many kind recommendations of our establishment they have given their customers and friends.

Notwithstanding the very large business we have secured, we do not think the sales of our immediate competitors have been lessened to any appreciable extent. Sharper competition has simply doubled the amount of Furniture and Carpets sold in Fort Wayne over the years previous.

IN ASHES!

Two Acres of Solid Buildings Destroyed by Fire—Three Men Perish in the Flames.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 25.—The tobacco warehouses of Thomas H. Glover & Co., Sawyer, Wallace & Co., T. B. Parish & Co., and the boarding house of Mrs. Annie Bender, occupying the square between Main and Market and Ninth and Tenth streets, were totally destroyed by fire early this morning, with 3,500 hogsheads of tobacco. The total loss is estimated at $350,000; partially insured.

Later—The entire square between Main and Market and Ninth and Tenth streets, containing two acres of buildings, with their contents are lost. The loss is estimated at fully a half million dollars. The insurance cannot be obtained as the papers are in the safes and mixed up with the debris. The fire was of incendiary origin it is thought. It broke out in the middle of the block, at the rear end of the Market street ell of the Boone warehouse.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 25.—Fire last night totally destroyed the large brick block on the corner of Bay and Clay streets, occupied by Clark and Loftus, furniture, Watson and Co., drugs, and Sablea Bros., leather. Loss $50,000; insurance about $30,000. It is supposed three men were in the building trying to save goods when the walls crashed in and they were killed. Their names are unknown. Six others were hurt from the same cause, but none fatally.

GEN. JAMES M. SPEED,

President Lincoln's Attorney General, Dies at His Kentucky Home.

LOUISVILLE, June 25.—Gen. James M. Speed, whose serious illness was announced in these dispatches several weeks ago, died at 3:15 this morning, at his home, in this county. For a year past he has suffered much from general debility. The deceased was a prominent republican politician and was attorney general under President Lincoln. He was in his seventy-sixth year.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

They are to Have a Grand Celebration and Picnic in This City July 4th.

The Knights of Labor will hold a grand celebration and picnic at Vordermark's grove, in the eastern end of the city of Fort Wayne, July 4th. Hon. Thomas Blair and other able speakers will address the multitude. A band of music will be present and a dancing platform has been erected. There will be refreshment stands, but no intoxicating liquors will be sold on the grounds. The best of order will be preserved. It is a "workingman's" picnic and a cordial invitation is extended to the public in general to attend. There will be ball-playing, wheel barrow racing, greased pigs will be turned loose and prizes given to those catching them. Good swings will be on the grounds. There will be slippery pole climbing and a game of foot-ball. Target practice will be indulged in. Innocent games of all kinds will abound. In short, it will be a regular old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. All persons will be admitted to the grounds free. Neighboring assemblies K. of L. are cordially invited to participate.

By order of the Committee.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.

Very Rev. J. H. Brammer Voted the Costly Chalice Last Night.

The attendance at the Fair last night was the greatest yet and the friendly contest for the costly chalice accounted for it. The interest was intense and Very Rev. Father Brammer has great reason to be proud of his loyal friends, because when the voting ceased he was the happy possessor of the gold chalice, fashioned after the famous cardinal's cup. The vote stood as follows: Rev. E. Koenig, 6,282½; Very Rev. J. H. Brammer, 16,343; Rev. J. H. Oechtering, 1,586; Rev. A. Messman, 100, realizing for the fair the handsome sum of $2,431,15. The distinguished priest was loudly cheered and responded in words laden with blessings for the substantial tokens of friendship bestowed upon him.

The contest for the engineer's kit closes on Monday eveinng at 11 o'clock.

The young ladies' contest closes to-night.

THE WABASH.

Important Changes Predicted in the Freight Department.

Receiver McNulty, General Superintendent Wade, Superintendent Stevens and General Passenger Agent Knight, of the Wabash, were at Toledo yesterday. They came in on a tour of inspection and left at noon for Peru, Ind. It is understood that the real object of the present tour is a contemplated change in the entire Wabash freight department. It is asserted that James Smith will retire from the position of general traffic manager, and that office will be abolished. It is also said that Samuel Smith, assistant general freight agent, will resign and that W. H. Knight, division freight and passenger agent, at Detroit, will succeed him. Milton Knight, of Chicago, is spoken of as the future general freight agent of the road.

The visit to Peru will, it is said, result in important changes there. Those who know say that the Wabash Western railroad will connect with the main line at Logansport instead of at Peru, as heretofore. Other important changes are contemplated.

The officials of the Wabash while at Toledo are understood to have made several big contracts with the Smith Bridge company for bridges at different points along the line. The officers of both companies spent considerable time in examining plans and specifications.

A Cleveland Assignment.

CLEVELAND, June 25.—Messrs. E. A. Crumb and George O. Baslington bankers and brokers assigned this morning. The failure grows out of the wheat panic in Chicago. The persons for whom Crumb and Baslington were doing business failed to meet the claims on them and the present step is taken to protect the creditors

AMONG THE SHOPS.

Items of Interest Gathered up and Recorded for the Benefit of the Men in These Busy Industries.

The last working day of the week is always hailed with delight by every employe in the manufacturing establishments of the city. To them the coming of Sunday means a day of rest. Six days spent in hard and earnest toil entitles them to a seventh in which the toils, the cares and the anxieties of the week are laid aside, and they are permitted to spend it at their homes enjoying, to its fullest extent, the comforts and happiness of domestic life. Some no doubt, pass the day of rest in a manner that is injurious to them and when they return to their work on Monday morning, the day's cessation from toil has not benefitted them, but if it is passed in a Christian way, as a large number of them do, they will start into their new week's work with a renewed zeal. This is the way it should be and THE SENTINEL hopes that to-morrow the Sabbath day will be so passed.

AT THE BASS FOUNDRY AND MACHINE WORKS.

The east end moulding rooms presented a busy scene this morning.

The works received several car loads of pig iron this morning for their own use.

The frame work for the new addition to the shops on Wallace street is now almost up and the building will progress rapidly.

Miss Mary Pickard, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, is visiting Supt. T. B. Pickard, of 106 East Washington street. She is passing the summer in the city and will remain the guest of the family for several weeks yet.

John McKean, one of the machinists, left to-day for Rome City, where he will remain until Tuesday enjoying the pleasures of that resort with his mother and sisters, who have a cottage rented there for the summer.

AT THE PITTSBURG SHOPS.

Barney Fitzpatrick, the genial foreman of the machine shops, is on the sick list.

A new engine, No. 320, of class S, left the shops this morning on its first trip. It will be used on this division of the road.

W. H. Polhamus, the road foreman's clerk, left to-day, with his wife, for Valparaiso, where they will spend the Sabbath.

Joseph Singmaster, a coppersmith, went to Petosky yesterday as a delegate to the convention of the insurance branch of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, which convenes there to-day.

The masons are at work building additions to several of the chimneys of the shops.

The floors of the locomotive engine rooms have been repaired.

Of the sixty-one employes of the Pennsylvania company arrested with so much flourish of trumpets a short time ago for robbing the cars of the company, but three remain in custody, the rest having been discharged.

Some idea of the amount of fuel that is used in running a railroad can be formed from the last monthly report of the Pittsburg road, which our reporter was alowed to glance at this morning in Roadmaster Polhamus' office. The report shows the amount of coal and wood used on this division of the road, between Chicago and Crestline, by the frieght and passenger locomotives only, and does not embrace that used in the shops and at stations along the road for other purpose. The amount of coal used during the month of May was 10,500 tons and the wood 375 cords, so that by placing a low price on each of these, the fuel bill for running the locomotives alone would be about $25,000 a month.

The big duplex engine that the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago is testing is performing very successfully. On Tuesday a run of nine and a half miles was made in ten minutes, and another run of eight and a half miles was made in eight minutes. She carried 173 pounds of steam, against 125 pounds carried by most road engines, and the train consisted of ten coaches and Pullman cars.

Will Release About $9,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Fairchild this afternoon telegraphs to all the assistant treasurers directing the payment of the July interest checks and coupons upon presentation. The effect of this will be to release from the subtreasurer about $9,000,000.

LOCAL NEWS.

There were no decisions in the superior court to-day.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. A. C. Huestis is very dangerously ill.

Frank Rudolph, of Fort Wayne, was yesterday granted a pension at Washington.

An alarm from box 62 called the department to Brinsley's feed yard, on Pearl street, where a fire was in progress.

The Pennsylvania railroad lines west of Pittsburg show an increase in net earnings in the month of May over those of the corresponding month, 1886, of $904,000.

Mr. John Tremmel, a bright young gentleman who is studying for the priesthood at St. Francis seminary, at Milwaukee, is the guest of his parents, Officer and Mrs. John Tremmell.

Chas. Rose, who was sued by H. H. Bossler for $19, was acquitted by Justice Harding to-day. The prosecution claimed that he had given Rose a $20 gold piece in mistake for $1, hence the suit.

Judge O'Rourke recorded these decisions this afternoon: Henry Sunderland vs. Henry Meyer. Judgment for $298.81; Paul Koehler vs. Adolph Parin. Dismissed; Lemuel C. Paine vs. Samuel Brown et al. Dismissed; Joseph L. Darling vs. D. H. Baldwin & Co. Judgement deferred.

John Kelly, who was sentenced to six months in jail for assault on old man Wolf at New Haven, did not appear in the circuit court to-day to renew his bond of $500 and it is declared forfeited. His father is surety and he will have to pay the amount unless Judge O'Rourke rescinds the order at the next term of court in September. The young man will also have to serve his jail sentence.

Unless something new is developed in regard to Cora Lee in the coming trial of Mrs. Molloy it is not likely that she will be tried again. The sentiment of the community seems to be rather in her favor, and, though many people about Springfield believe that she and Mrs. Molloy are guilty of participation in the murder of Sarah Graham, it is not probable that a verdict can be found against either.

TWO PENSIONS with arrears, recently issued by the Pension Bureau, are said to be the largest ever paid. One was to Francis Patterson, formerly of Company G, One Hundred and Fifty-fourth New York Infantry, who is totally blind. He is to receive $13,337.99, and $72 a month as long as he lives. The other is to Walter S. Stephens, formerly of Company A, Eighty-first Ohio Infantry. He is insane. He will receive $12,346, and $72 a month.

MORE STEADY.

A Better Outlook in the New York Stock Market, and No Panic Is Now Anticipated.

NEW YORK, June 25.—The worst feature of the decline in the stock market was over by noon yesterday and by 1 o'clock the market again subsided into the usual midsummer dullness.

Wall street was puzzled to account for the fact that a decline could occur without dragging down some of the "bull" houses, which have been carrying a large list of stocks; but it is explained by reports that Gould, Field, Vanderbilt and Philadelphia capitalists had taken up the stocks which were in weak hands and relieved the holders of the necessity of sacrificing them. Cyrus W. Field said he had taken 7,000,000 shares of Manhattan stocks.

The following review was issued by Henry Clews & Co.:

The surge in the market should not have been uneasy, as every day for a fortnight or more past we are on record as predicting just such a backset as Wall street has now met with. The effect will be beneficial, as it will prevent a more serious settlement. If the day of reconing had been deferred to the crop moving season instead of yesterday, further trouble must have resulted here and elsewhere.

12:30 p. m.—The market for stocks opened higher than last night's closing prices, Manhattan's first sale being 139 against 135 last night. There was no vestige of yesterday's panic apparent and although the market was for a while ragged the roughness soon wore away, and it is now steady in nearly all cases at an advance of from one to three per cent. Money is offered freely at six per cent. by some parties that were credited with forcing up the rates yesterday.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Wheat, opened ⅛ to ¾ lower and later recovered part of the decline; No. 2 red June, 91¾@92c. Corn, ⅛@¼c lower, dull, mixed, 46½@47½. Oats, shade easier, dull, 33@41c

TOLEDO, June 25.—Wheat, lower, quiet, 81½c. Corn, steady, 38½c. Clover seed, steady, $4 25.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Wheat steady, 69½. Corn, easy at 35⅛c. Oats, easy, at 24⅞c. Rye, 51c. Barley, nothing doing. Timothy, prime, $2 10. Flax seed, $1 22.

DO WE WANT IT?

Blackford County Wants to Send Fort Wayne Its Winter Gas Fuel.

The Hartford City Telegram is teeming with gas news from that city and Montpelier this week. It says: "Supt. W. W. Worthington and Hon. R. C. Bell, of Fort Wayne, were in town again on Tuesday. It is very evident that the gentlemen are stuck on our wonderful gas well.—Prof Gorby is firmly of the opinion that Montpelier is in the oil belt and said: 'I would go deeper and make an oil well of this, and bore again for gas.' Mr. Hattersly, of Fort Wayne, one of the stockholders, was down on Monday and adjusted a separator which divides the gas from the oil.—Now that we have a great deal more gas than can be used in this place, the question naturally arises, 'Cannot we supply some of the larger cities that have no natural gas:' The only city of any considerable size that gas could be piped to is Fort Wayne. The great manufacturing interests there, not to consider the large population that would use it for fuel, would warrant the organization of a company for the purpose of laying pipes and supplying Fort Wayne with that much needed article. It is the opinion of the Telegram that if Fort Wayne people fully understood the situation they would look only to Blackford county for a supply of gas."

THE WHEEL.

Touring, Beginners and Items of General Interest for Wheelmen.

Bob Learmouth contemplates a trip east soon.

Dawson & Karns have invested in an American Safety.

Bicycling is looming up, a number of sales haveing been made the past week.

J. F. Wing has a pair of roller skates which he would like to trade for a bicycle.

Jesse Younge is one of the safest riders in the city. He would not be without a bike.

Stephen Koller, of Keil's book store, is spoken of as a possible candidate for the honors of cycling.

Will Diffendaffer, who had a little trouble in learning to ride a bike, is now an expert at the business.

George R. Bidwell is already spoken of as a possible candinate for the presidency of the L. A. W. next year.

Charley McClain and family go to Rome City to-day to spend a couple of weeks. Charley may take his bike with him.

It isn't necessary to go to Lafayette to find Columbia wheels that break down. Fort Wayne shows up a great many of them.

Will Shorey and O. L. Perry did not make their century run last Sunday, as Mr. Perry was not in good trim for so long a run.

Stephen Bond has returned to Fort Wayne to reside permanently. He has purchased the commission business of G. F. Watt.

Sim Mahurin is getting there immensely. He handles his bike like an old veteran. As we predicted, he will make a good rider.

Harry Keplinger reports a splendid business on Victor bicycles, having sold again as many this year, so far, as he did all of last year.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Canton Roller, a spicy little sheet published at Canton, Ohio. and devoted to all out door sports. Bicycling takes the lead of course.

Carl Swain and O. L. Perry are contemplating a tour through the southern portion of Indiana. They expect to leave here directly after the Fourth and go to Portland by train and from there wheel to Ridgeville, Winchester, Richmond, etc.

The most flattering recognition of the usefulness of the wheel came from a most prominent business house of this city, which last week raised the salary of an employe $2 a month. He had considerable outdoor work to do for the firm and did it on his wheel, which his employers told him made him that more valuable to them in the saving of car fare, the economizing of time, etc.—Spectator.

Yesterday morning our bicycle editor had a very pleasant chat with Messrs. J. W. Lutz and W. C. Parmenter, two prominent wheelmen of Lima, Ohio, who are touring it to Hutchinson, Kas., via Chicago. They left Lima Thursday morning, at 6:30 and arrived here the same evening at 8 o'clock, making sixty miles for the day. They both ride Victor wheels, and swear by them. We wish them a pleasant and prosperous journey.

A DOUBLE MURDER!

A Human Fiend of Stark County, Ohio, Butchers His Wife and Her Step-son With a Hatchet.

CLEVELAND, June 25.—At North Industry, a small village in Stark county, Ohio, yesterday afternoon, Conrad Doll, a coal miner, killed his wife and stepson with a hatchet. The murder was a horrible one. A large posse is out in pursuit of the murderer and it is hinted that if caught he will be lynched. Yesterday Doll found a letter written by another man to his wife, in which statements compromising the woman were made. This led to the murder. A letter left by Doll states that he intended to kill his wife and step-son and then commit suicide.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

IN a letter from a German physician, who is a resident of Brazil, it is stated that permanganate of potash is as infallible an antidote for snake bites in that country as in India, and that every farmer keeps some of it in his dwelling.

OWING to the increased electrical intensity of the atmosphere, which is induced by the continual evolution of steam and smoke, Dr. Andries estimates that the danger from lightning is from three to five times greater than it was fifty years ago.

THE human hair varies in thickness from 1-250 to 1-600 of an inch. Blonde hair is the finest and red the coarsest. A German investigator finds that in four heads of hair of equal weight the red one contains about 90,000 hairs, the black 103,000, the brown 109,000, and the blonde 140.000.

THE ingredients of many of the fire extinguishers now before the public are said to be eight pounds carbonate of soda, four pounds alum, three pounds borax, one pound carbonate of potash, and twenty-four pounds silicate of soda solution, these being, of course, mixed together; one and one-half pounds of this mixture are added to each gallon of water when required for use, the timeliness of application constituting the important feature in the matter of efficiency.

THE frothy substance which is often found on grass, and popularly known as "frog-spittle," has no connection with that animal. It is caused by a little insect which secretes a viscid, transparent fluid, with which he is completely covered. To enable him to breathe, he reaches out a pair of legs, and, enclosing a little bubble of air, brings it down, and afterward allows it to escape into the liquid. After a while the numerous bubbles convert it completely into froth, or a substance resembling saliva.

WOOD oil is made on a large scale in Sweden from the refuse of timber cuttings and forest clearings, and from stumps and roots; and, although it cannot well be burned in common lamps on account of the heavy proportion of carbon it contains, it furnishes a satisfactory light in lamps especially made for it, and in its natural state is said to be the cheapest of illuminating oils. Thirty factories produce about 40,000 liters of the oil daily; turpentine, creosote, acetic acid, charcoal, coal tar oils, and other useful substances are also obtained from the same materials.

TAKE it as a rule, the most violent poisons, and the substances that produce the most deleterious effects on the human system, are from the vegetable kingdom. The mineral drugs which may cause harm are few in number, and if we except arsenic, are not especially violent poisons. There is a considerable amount of poisoning from lead, but not through its medicinal uses; and the same may be said at the present time of mercury. In fine, it is the purely vegetable drugs which are the most dangerous, because it is these which stimulate the brain or benumb the senses, induce morbid habits, and eventually establish physical degeneration. We wish that the public could be made to understand this, when it is confronted with alluring notices of the perfect safety and harmlessness of "purely vegetable" drugs.

A Speculator.

An agent called on a Dakota man saying:

"You have been recommended to me as a prominent citizen, and I have a patent ice cream freezer here which I would like to sell you. It is——"

"Don't want it."

"It is something new and——"

"Tell you I wouldn't have it."

"But I'm sure you would——"

"Wouldn't; no use for it, never eat ice cream."

"But it only costs $1.50, and perhaps——"

"No perhaps about it, wouldn't take your freezer as a gift."

"Well, I have another scheme here. I am selling chances for a drawing on the same freezer. There are one hundred tickets at a dollar apiece."

"Well, that's more like it—put my name down for two tickets. This is speculation and I always go in on anything of that kind."—Dakota Bell.

Mr. F. A. Miller, 630 East 157th street, N. Y., was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. I recently began with Kaskine, which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 22 lbs."

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1887.

A FEW months ago a farmer in Liberty County, Georgia, planted a patch of potatoes, using as a fertilizer trash, sand, etc., from a house infested with flees. When he needed the potatoes to eat, it was with difficulty that he could remain in the vicinity of the patch long enough to dig them on account of the immense quantities of fleas there. They had actually lived and thrived for months far under ground.

A SNAIL'S pace need not be used any longer as a term more or less indefinite. By an interesting experiment at the Terre Haute Polytechnic the other day it was ascertained exactly and reduced to figures, which may now be quoted by persons who favor the use of exact terms. A half-dozen of the mollusks were permitted to crawl between two points ten feet apart, and the average pace was ascertained. From this it was easy enough to calculate that one snail can crawl a mile in just fourteen days.

TENNESSEE has two streams called Daddy and Mammy creeks. They were named away back when the State was first settled. A husband and wife riding along on horseback began quarreling, and when they arrived at the first stream the former soundly cuffed his wife. He then named the stream Daddy Creek. They jogged along still quarreling till they came to the second creek, when the woman picked up the limb of a tree and felled her companion, and triumphantly named the water Mammy Creek.

IN February last Perry Lampman, an old widower residing in Orange, Ionia County, Michigan, deeded his farm of forty acres to Mrs. Eunice Wright, in conformity with an agreement between them that Mrs. Wright should marry him after he had so deeded the farm. After getting the deed she concluded she didn't want to marry him, while she was so reluctant to deed back the land that a suit has been begun to set aside the deed, and a special guardian has been appointed for the innocent old chap.

HERE are a few items regarding the royal yachts which may prove interesting to the British tax-payer. The original cost of the Victoria and Albert was about £136,000, and she has since had spent on her over £300,000. The Osborne's original cost was about £106,000, and she has had about £112,000 expended on her. The Alberta's original cost was £27,000, with a subsequent expenditure of £68,000. The Elfin's original cost was £6,000, the subsequent expenditure being over £40,000. Besides these interesting items the annual pay of the officers and crews of the royal yachts is close upon £50,000.

A LITTLE boy in Philadelphia was flying a kite on the housetop. Another lad two or three houses away was engaged in the same diversion. One opened his mouth to call to the other, and just them a flock of swallows came flying by. One of them, evidently confused, flew against the boy's face, driving his bill clean through his cheek. In his agony the lad closed his teeth hard and held the bird fast. The swallow was partly stunned by the shock, and, with the bird sticking out from his cheek, the lad ran down-stairs to his mother. She removed the bird and it now occupies a handsome cage in the house, and its owner wouldn't part with it under any consideration.

DR. TALMAGE says: "I once occupied the novel position of sitting in a pew in my own church listening to a minister preaching to my own congregation one of my own sermons. No, not from notes. It had been memorized, and I don't imagine that the brother knew whose sermon he was repeating. Sermons go the rounds sometimes without name and are taken up and preached in that way. My wife listened to one of my sermons preached verbatum. The President of the Wesleyan Conference of Australia informed me a couple of years ago that a minister had been dismissed from the conference for preaching one of my sermons—not because it was a sermon of mine, but because he had claimed it as one of his own."

FIVE years ago there was not an electric railway in practical operation in the country, while to-day there are more than a dozen, with every prospect that there will be a hundred within the next two years. Experts do not hesitate to predict the speedy displacement of the horse as a motor for cars in cities, and one authority believes that the change from horses to electricity will soon go on as fast as the electric plants can be manufactured. Step by step the dynamo has so improved that the work which it costs $8 to do with steam power and $6.50 to do with horses can be done by electricity for $4. Even if electricity were no cheaper than horses the change would be for the better. The streets will be cleaner; [illegible]

JOE MULHATTON, famous as the originator of a hundred mountainous stories, is living now in Louisville. He is a queer fellow, a successful commercial traveler, one who never drinks nor smokes, and who is not worth a thousand dollars. He gives away his money. "He can't help it," said a friend; "he has to empty his pockets when he runs upon any pitiable case." Mulhatton's one weakness is his fancy for telling awful lies in print. He will work for a month upon some fabrication not a quarter of a column in length until he has given it a tone of ingenuousness which makes it travel. A Mr. Peters, Mulhatton's old employer, showed a letter the other day from the eccentric fellow in which he inclosed a printed slip bearing his latest story. It was of a man in Kentucky who had trained monkeys to pick hemp, and has had a great run through the press within the last three months. "They are awful stories," said Mr. Peters, "but they afford the only place where Joe will lie. I'd take his word in a business way for any amount."

BEN BUTLER recently delivered the annual address to the graduating class of the law school of the Boston University. After telling them to get their pay in advance, never disclose the secret of a client, and by all means win their first cases, he added a few points which will interest the casual reader of newspapers. "The first duty of the young lawyer," said Gen. Butler, "is absolute fidelity to one's client. The lawyer is the adviser and director of his client in all his business affairs. You are to do for him as he would do for himself did he possess your learning and talents. Some say, 'Oh, you must not defend a guilty man.' Why not? Wouldn't he defend himself? You must defend him as fully and as honorably as if you knew him innocent. If you knew him innocent, it often unfits even the strongest man for the task of defense. I never wish to defend a man unless I know he is guilty. Be sure that you find out that he is guilty. Some men dislike to confess their crime to the lawyer for fear that then he will not undertake the case. You must establish a feeling of confidence with such. Let them know that you must have all the facts. Never allow yourself to state to the jury that your client is innocent. It is your business to act as if it were so. If you know nothing about the circumstances you are like an ass jumping around in a tanyard, not knowing where the pits are."

Up a Tall Tree in Borneo.

The Hill Dyaks of Borneo are expert climbers. Mr. Hornaby, while collecting specimens of natural history, saw a Dyak ascend a large tapang tree, five feet in diameter at the base, straight as a ship's mast, and without the smallest limb or knot for 120 feet up.

The man went up the tree to secure a bees' nest hanging from the under side of the lowest limb. The nest was simply a large, naked, triangular piece of white comb.

A Dyak "ladder" had been put up the previous year, and reached from the ground to the branches. It consisted of seven 20-foot bamboo poles held almost end to end alongside the trunk by sharp pegs driven into the soft wood about two feet apart.

The pegs were driven first on one side of the poles and then on the other, and to them the bamboos were lashed by rattans, which held them firmly about eight inches from the tree. These pegs served as the rungs of the ladder.

The builder must have been a bold man, with nerves of steel. He was obliged to let the ends of the poles overlap a few feet in order to build the ladder with safety to himself.

The completion of the ladder was most difficult. Clinging to the slight bamboo pole, 100 feet from the ground, he hauled up the last bamboo, twenty feet long, drove in the peg, lashed the lower end of the pole to it, and then ascended that shaking bamboo to fasten it at the top.

The Dyak honey-hunter fastened to his back a basket to receive the honey. Making up his torch-wood, with which to smoke the bees out of the nest and away from himself, he ignited it, slung it by a cord from his neck, so that it would hang below his feet, and started up the slender "ladder."

Hand and foot he went up, peg after peg, with a nonchalant ease which would have done credit to the most daring of sailors. Even that sailor would have been pardoned if he was a little shaky while climbing a tall factory chimney by the lightning-rod.

On reaching the lower limb, 120 feet from the ground, he took his torch in one hand, waved it to and fro until it smoked freely, and then crawled out along the bare branch until he was in reach of the coveted nest.

Examining it first on one side, and then on the other, he shouted down as cheerfully as if his climb had been nothing, "No honey!"

Leaving the comb untouched, he descended with a smile, and reached the ground without the least tremor.—Youth's Companion.

Delicate persons, and all whose systems have become debilitated, should bear in mind that Simmons Liver Regulator is not a drastic, purging medicine, does not weaken or deplete the system as other purgatives do, but acts gently. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to leave to intemperance; will promote digestion dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system.

Hon. Alex. H. Stephens, of Ga., says: "Simmons Liver Regulator is mild and suits me better than more active remedies."

OPPORTUNITY is in respect to time, in some sense, as time is in respect to eternity; it is the small moment, the exact point, the critical minute, on which every good work so much depends.—Sprat.

MR. MULHALL, the noted statistician, who is connected in some capacity with Lord Randolph Churchill, has just published a jubilee book entitled "Fifty Years of National Progress." This book shows that while all other portions of the British Empire have prospered Ireland has retrograded. Under the heading, "Ireland," for instance, occurs this significant passage: The present reign has been the most disastrous since Elizabeth, as the following statistics show: Died of famine, 1,225,000; persons evicted, 3,668,000; number of emigrants, 4,186,000. Evictions were more numerous immediately after the famine, the landlords availing themselves of the period of greatest calamity to enforce their rights. Official returns give the number of families, and these averaging seven persons, we ascertain the actual number of persons evicted—

Years.	Families.	Persons.
1849-'51	263,000	1,841,000
1852-'60	110,000	770,000
1861-'70	47,000	329,000
1871-'86	104,000	728,000
Total	524,000	3,668,000

The number of persons evicted is equal to 75 per cent. of the actual population. No country, either in Europe or elsewhere, has suffered such wholesale extermination. And the blood-letting still goes on. Truly the Irishmen have reason to throw up their hats and toast good Queen Victoria this jubilee year!

Get rid of that tired feeling as quick as possible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla which gives strength, a good appetite, and health.

So He Was.

"Humph! but you are wearing your father's hat!" he said, as he looked over the fence at the other boy.

"I know it!" was the reply.

"Hey! but you are ashamed!"

"Not much I ain't! A feller who can't make use of his father hadn't orter to have one!"—Detroit Free Press

DURING the progress of excavations in Old Broad street, London, at the back of Austin Friars, where a monastic institution stood in the pre-reformation times, there were some strange discoveries made. As the debris of the foundation of some city offices were cleared away several vaults constructed of ancient brickwork and forming archways were found in a comparative state of preservation, and in one of the vaults a leaden coffin containing a skull and thigh bones. The coffin was of somewhat peculiar shape, having a narrow compartment for the head, in which the skull was found, and it broadened out where the shoulders of the corpse would rest. It may be that the vaults were used for the interment of the monks.

THE Kentucky and Great Western road, recently sold by order of the United States court, consisted of a legislative franchise and a debt of $1,000,000. On its own map the road ran from Maysville to Newport. In reality it runs nowhere, for it was never built. The counties along the route voted large subsidies, and the $1,000,000 which the road owed was wasted in survey, salaries, etc. When the road was sold a few days ago it brought $500.

VITIATED BLOOD.

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your Cuticura Remedies, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your Cuticura Remedies a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. Crawford.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your Cuticura Remedies for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw cured by the use of five bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, Cuticura, and Cuticura Soap. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

And contagious humors, with loss of hair, and eruptions of the skin, are positively cured by Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Cuticura Resolvent internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of Sanford's Radical Cure, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent and an improved inhaler, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"So the Waters Were Healed to This Day," is the Subject.

BROOKLYN, June 19.—This morning at the Tabernacle the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage read, previous to the sermon, portions of Scripture descriptive of ancient cities and gave out the hymn:

"Fields are white, the harvest waiting;
Who will bear the sheeves away?"

His text was, "And the men of the city said unto Elisha, Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my Lord seeth; but the water is naught, and the ground barren. And he said, Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him. And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said, thus said the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land. So the waters were healed unto this day." II. Kings ii, 19-22.

Dr. Talmage said: It is difficult to estimate how much of the prosperity and health of a city are dependent upon good water. The time when through well laid pipes and from safe reservoir an abundance of water from Croton or Ridgewood or Schuylkill brought into the city is appropriately celebrated with oration and pyrotechnic display. Thank God every day for clear, bright, beautiful sparkling water as it drops in the shower or tosses up in the fountain or rushes out of the hydrant.

The city of Jericho, notwithstanding all its physical and commercial advantages, was lacking in this important element. There was enough water, but it was diseased, and the people were crying out by reason thereof. Elisha, the prophet, comes to the rescue. He say: "Get me a new cruse; fill it with salt and bring it to me." So the cruse of salt was brought to the prophet, and I see him walking out to the general reservoir, and he takes that salt and throws it into the reservoir, and lo! all the impurities depart, through a supernatural and divine influence, and the waters are good and fresh and clear, and all the people clap their hands and lift up their faces in the gladness. Water for Jericho—clear, bright, beautiful, God given water.

At different times I have pointed out to you the fountains of municipal corruption, and this morning I propose to show you what are the means for the rectification of these fountains. There are four or five kinds of salt that have a cleansing tendency. So far as God may help me, I shall bring a cruse of salt to the work, and empty it into the great reservoir of municipal crime, sin and shame, ignorance and abomination.

In this work of cleansing our cities, I have first to remark that there is a work for the broom and the shovel that nothing else can do. There always has been an intimate connection between iniquity and dirt. The filthy parts of the great cities are always the most iniquitous parts. The gutters and the pavements of the Fourth ward, New York, illustrate and symbolize the character of the people in the Fourth ward.

The first thing that a bad man does when he is converted is thoroughly to wash himself. There were, this morning, on the way to the different churches, thousands of men in proper apparel who, before their conversion, were unfit in their Sabbath dress. When on the Sabbath I see a man uncleanly in his dress, my suspicions in regard to his moral character are aroused, and they are always well founded. So as to allow no excuse for lack of ablution, God has cleft the continents with rivers and lakes, and has sunk five great oceans, and all the world ought to be clean. Away, then, with the dirt from our cities, not only because the physical health needs an ablution, but because all the great moral and religious interests of the cities demand it as a positive necessity. A filthy city always has been and always will be a wicked city.

Through the upturning of the earth for great improvement our city could not be expected to be as clean as usual, but for the illimitable dirt of Brooklyn for the last six months there is no excuse. It is not merely a matter of dust in the eyes, and mud for the shoes, and of stench for the nostrils, but of morals for the soul.

Another corrective influence that we would bring to bear upon the evils of our great cities is a Christian printing press. The newspapers of any place are the test of its morality or immorality. The newsboy who runs along the streets with a roll of papers under his arm is a tremendous force that cannot be turned aside nor resisted, and at his every step the city is elevated or degraded. This hungry, all-devouring American mind must have something to read, and upon editors and authors and book publishers and parents and teachers rests the responsibility of what they shall read. Almost every man you meet has a book in his hand or a newspaper in his pocket. What book is it you have in your hand? What newspaper is it you have in your pocket? Ministers may preach, reformers may plan, philanthropists may toil for the elevation of the suffering and the criminal, but until all the newspapers of the land and all the booksellers of the land set themselves against an iniquitous literature—until then we shall be fighting against fearful odds. Every time the cylinders of our great publishing houses turn they make the earth quake. From them goes forth a thought like an angel of light to feed and bless the world, or like an angel of darkness to smite it with corruption and sin and shame and death. May God by His omnipotent spirit purify and elevate the American printing press!

I go on further and say we must depend upon the school for a great deal of correcting influence. A community can no more afford to have ignorant men in its midst than it can afford to have uncaged hyenas. Ignorance is the mother of hydra-headed crime. Thirty-one per cent. of all the criminals of New York State can neither read nor write. Intellectual darkness is generally the precursor of moral darkness. I know there are educated outlaws—men who, through their sharpness of intellect, are made more dangerous. They use their fine penmanship in signing other people's names, and their science in ingenious burglaries, and their fine manners in adroit libertinism. They go their round of sin with well-cut apparel, and dangling jewelry, and watches of eighteen karats, and kid gloves. They are refined, educated, magnificent villains. But that is the exception. It is generally the case that the criminal classes are as ignorant as they are wicked. For the proof of what I say, go into the prisons and the penitentiaries, and look upon the men and women incarcerated. The dishonesty in the eye, the low passion in the lip, are not more conspicuous than the ignorance in the forehead. The ignorant classes are always the dangerous classes. Demagogues marshal them. They are helmless, and are driven before the gale.

It is high time that all city and State authority, as well as the Federal Government, appreciate the awful statistics that, while years ago in this country there was set apart 48,000,000 acres of land for school purposes, there are now in New England 191,000 people who can neither read nor write, and in the State of Pennsylvania 222,000 who can neither read nor write, and in the State of New York 241,000 who can neither read nor write, while in the United States there are nearly 6,000,000 who can neither read nor write. Statistics enough to stagger and confound any man who loves his God and his country. Now, in view of this fact, I am in favor of compulsory education. When parents are so bestial as to neglect this duty to the child, I say the law, with a strong hand, at the same time with a gentle hand, ought to lead these little ones into the light of intelligence and good morals. It was a beautiful tableau when in our city a swarthy policeman having picked up a lost child in the street, was found appeasing its thousands of little ones through our streets who are crying for the bread of knowledge and intelligence. Shall we not give it to them? The officers of the law ought to go down into the cellars, and up into the garrets, and bring out these benighted little ones and put them under educational influences; after they have passed through the bath and under the comb, putting before them the spelling book, and teaching them to read the Lord's Prayer and the sermon on the mount: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven." Our city ought to be father and mother both to these outcast little ones. As a recipe for the cure of much of the woe, and want and crime of our city, I give the words which Thorwaldsen had chiseled on the open scroll in the hand of the statue of John Gutenberg, the inventor of the art of printing: "Let there be light!"

Still further: Reformatory societies are an important element in the rectification of the public fountain. Without calling any of them by name, I refer more especially to those which recognize the physical as well as the moral woes of the world. There was pathos and a great deal of common sense in what the poor woman said to Dr. Guthrie when he was telling her what a very good woman she ought to be. "Oh," she said, "if you were as hungry and cold as I am, you could think of nothing else." I believe the great want of our city is the Gospel and something to eat. Faith and repentance are of infinite importance; but they cannot satisfy an empty stomach. You have to go forth in this work with the bread of eternal life in your right hand and the bread of this life in your left hand, and then you can touch them, imitating the Lord Jesus Christ, who first broke the bread and fed the multitude in the wilderness, and then began to preach, recognizing the fact that while people are hungry they will not listen and they will not repent. We want more common sense in the distribution of our charities; fewer magnificent theories, and more hard work.

Still further: The great remedial influence is the gospel of Christ. Take that down through the lanes of suffering. Take that down amid the hovels of sin. Take that up amid the mansions and palaces of your city. That is the salt that can cure all the poisoned fountains of public iniquity. Do you know that in this cluster of three cities, New York, Jersey City, and Brooklyn, there are a great multitude of homeless children? You see I speak more in regard to the youth and the children of the country, because old villains are seldom reformed, and therefore, I talk more about the little ones. They sleep under the stoops, in the burned out safe, in the wagons in the streets, on the barges, wherever they can get a board to cover them. And in the summer they sleep all night long in the parks. Their destitution is well set forth by an incident. A city missionary asked one of them: "Where is your home?" Said he: "I don't have no home, sir." "Well, where are your father and mother?" "They are dead, sir." "Did you ever hear of Jesus Christ?" "No, I don't think I ever heard of him." "Did you ever hear of God?" "Yes, I've heard of God. Some of the poor people think it kind of lucky at night to say something over about that before they go to sleep. Yes, sir, I've heard of him." Think of a conversation like that in a Christian city.

How many are waiting for you to come out in the spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ and rescue them from the wretchedness here! Oh, that the church of God had arms long enough and hearts warm enough to take them up! How many of them there are! As I was thinking of the subject this morning, it seemed to me as though there was a great brink, and that these little ones with cut and torn feet were coming on toward it. And here is a group of orphans. Oh, fathers and mothers, what do you think of these fatherless and motherless little ones? No hand at home to tade care of their apparel, no heart to pity them. Said one little one, when the mother died: "Who will take care of my clothes now?" The little ones are thrown out in this great, cold world. They are shivering on the brink like lambs on the verge of a precipice. Does not your blood run cold as they go over it?

And here is another group that come on toward the precipice. They are the children of besotted parents. They are worse off than orphans. Look at that pale cheek; woe bleached it. Look at that gash across the forehead; the father struck it. Hear that heart-piercing cry; a drunken mother's blasphemy compelled it. And we come out and say: "O ye suffering, peeled and blistered ones, we come to help you." "Too late!" cry thousands of voices; "the path we travel is steep down, and we can't stop. Too late." And we catch our breath and make a terrific outcry. "Too late!" is echoed from the garret to the cellar, from the gin shop and from the brothel. "Too late!" It is too late, and they go over.

Here is another group, an army of neglected children. They come on toward the brink, and every time they step 10,000 hearts break. The ground is red with the blood of their feet. The air is heavy with their groans. Their ranks are being filled up from all the houses of iniquity and shame. Skeleton Despair pushes them on toward the brink. The death knell has already begun to toll, and the angels of God hover like birds over the plunge of a cataract. While these children are on the brink they halt, and throw out their hands and cry: "Help! help!" Oh, church of God, will you help? Men and women bought by the blood of the Son of God, will you help? while Christ cries from the heavens: "Save them from going down; I am the ransom."

I stopped on the street and just looked at the face of one of those little ones. Have you ever examined the faces of the neglected children of the poor? Other children have gladness in their faces. When a group of them rush across the road, it seems as though a spring gust had unloosened an orchard of apple blossoms. But these children of the poor. There is but little ring in their laughter, and it stops quick, as though same bitter memory tripped it. They have an old walk. They do not skip or run on the lumber just for the pleasure of leaping down. They never bathed in the mountain stream. They never waded in the brook for pebbles. They never chased the butterfly across the lawn, putting their hat right down where it was just before. Childhood has been dashed out of them. Want waved its wizard wand above the manger of their birth, and withered leaves are lying where God intended a budding giant of battle. Once in a while one of these children gets out. Here is one, for instance. At 10 years of age he is sent out by his parents, who say to him: "Here is a basket; now go off and beg and steal." The boy says: "I can't steal." They kick him into a corner. That night he puts his swollen head into the straw, but a voice comes from heaven, saying: "Courage, poor boy, courage!" Covering up his head from the bestiality, and stopping his ears from the cursing, he gets on up better and better. He washes his face clean at the public hydrant. With a few pennies got at running errands he gets a better coat. Rough men knowing that he comes from a low street, say: "Back with you, you little villain, to the place where you came from." But that night the boy says: "God help me, I can't go back;" and quicker than ever mother flew at the cry of a child's pain, the Lord responds from the heavens: "Courage, poor boy, courage." His bright face gets him a position. After a while he is second clerk. Years pass on, and he is first clerk. Years pass on. The glory of young manhood is on him. He comes into the firm. He goes on from one business success to another. He has achieved great fortune. He is the friend of the church of God, the friend of all good institutions, and one day he stands talking to the board of trade or to the chamber of commerce. People say: "Do you know who that is? Why, that is a merchant prince, and he was born on Elm street." But God says in regard to him something better than that: "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb." Oh, for some one to write the already been made, made by the hand of God; and when these shall come at last with songs and rejoicing, it will take a very broad banner to hold the names of all the battlefields on which they got the victory.

Some years ago a roughly-clad, ragged boy came into my brother's office in New York and said: "Mr. Talmage, lend me $5." My brother said: "Who are you?" The boy replied: "I am nobody. Lend me $5." "What do you want to do with $5?" "Well," the boy replied, "my mother is sick and poor and I want to go into the newspaper business, and I shall get a home for her and will pay you back." My brother gave him the $5, of course never expecting to see it again; but he said: "When will you pay it?" "I will pay it in six months, sir." Time went by, and one day a lad came into my brother's office and said: "There's your $5." "What do you mean? What $5" inquired my brother. "Don't you remember that a boy came in here six months ago and wanted to borrow $5 to go into the newspaper business?" "Oh, yes, I remember; are you the lad?" "Yes," he replied, "I have got along nicely. I have got a nice home for my mother (she is sick yet) and I am as well clothed as you are, and there's your $5." Oh, was he not worth saving? Why, that lad is worth fifty such boys as I have sometimes seen moving in elegant circles, never put to any use for God or man. Worth saving! I go farther than that and tell you they are not only worth saving but they are being saved. One of these lads picked up from our streets and sent west by a benevolent society wrote east, saying: "I am getting along first rate. I am on probation in the Methodist Church. I shall be entered as a member the 1st of next month. I now teach a Sunday-school class of eleven boys. I get along first rate with it. This is a splendid country to make a living in. If the boys running around the street with a blacking box on their shoulder, or a bundle of papers under their arms, only knew what high old times we boys have out here, they wouldn't hesitate about coming west, but come the first chance they got." So some by one humane and Christian visitation, and some by another, are being rescued. In one reform school, through which 2,000 of the little ones passed, 1,995 turned out well. In other words, only five of the 2,000 turned out badly. There are thousands of them who, through Christian societies, have been transplanted to beautiful homes all over this land, and there are many who, through the rich grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, have already won the crown. A little girl was found in the streets of Baltimore and taken into one of the reform societies, and they said to her: "What is your name?" She said: "My name is Mary." "What is your other name?" She said: "I don't know." So they took her into the reform society, and as they did not know her last name they always called her "Mary Lost," since she had been picked up out of the street. But she grew on, and after awhile the Holy Spirit came to her heart, and she became a Christian child, and she changed her name; and when anybody asked her what her name was she said: "It used to be Mary Lost; but now, since I have become a Christian, it is Mary Found."

For this vast multitude are we willing to go forth from this morning's service and see what we can do, employing all the agencies I have spoken of for the rectification of the poisoned fountains? We live in a beautiful city. The lines have fallen to us in pleasant places and we have a goodly heritage; and any man who does not like a residence in Brooklyn must be a most uncomfortable and unreasonable man. But, my friends, the material prosperity of a city is not its chief glory. There may be fine houses and beautiful streets, and that all be the garniture of a sepulcher. Some of the most prosperous cities of the world have gone down; not one stone left upon another. But a city may be in ruins long before a tower has fallen, or a column has crumbled, or a tomb has been defaced. When in a city the churches of God are full of cold formalities and inanimate religion; when the houses of commerce are the abode of fraud and unholy traffic; when the streets are filled with crime unarrested and sin unenlightened and helplessness unpitied—that city is in ruins, though every church were a St. Peter's and every moneyed institution were a Bank of England and every library were a British museum and every house had a porch like that of Rheims and a roof like that of Amiens and a tower like that of Antwerp and traceried windows like those of Freiburg.

My brethren, our pulses beat rapidly the time away, and soon we shall be gone, and what we have to do for the city in which we live we must do right speedily or never do it at all. In that day when those who have wrapped themselves in luxuries and despised the poor shall come to shame and everlasting contempt, I hope it may be said of you and me that we gave bread to the hungry and wiped away the tear of the orphan and upon the wanderer of the street we opened the brightness and benediction of a Christian home; and then, through our instrumentality it shall be known on earth and in Heaven that Mary Lost became Mary Found!

DOWN IN WASHINGTON.

Interesting Reminiscence of Exciting Times.

[Washington letter.]

For years the only way to come to the Capital was over the Baltimore and Ohio, and it is only so far back as 1863 that direct railroad communication between Washington and New York was established. In that year through the efforts of Prescott Smith, the Camden and Amboy road in New Jersey, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, and the Baltimore and Ohio were brought into one consolidated line. A banquet was given in honor of the event at Willard's, and Washington celebrated with great enthusiasm. Then for the first time it was possible to come through without buying one's ticket three or four times over and without rechecking baggage twice. Even that inconvenient way of traveling, which took nearly all day, was looked upon as a marvel of modern improvement, for down in 1852 the journey from New York over to Washington had been by steamer to Amboy, railroad to Bordentown, steamer to Philadelphia, where another steamer took the passenger down the river to Frenchtown, and there stages drove across Delaware, and a steamer made the trip to Baltimore. There the passenger took stage for the Capital. One can go to Omaha or Winnepeg now in less time than was then taken to get over here from New York. For many years after the Baltimore and Ohio connection to New York was effected the road refused to check baggage through to Chicago and the West. This brought the Pennsylvania road into competition, and the Baltimore and Potomac was built into the Capital. The local feeling was so strong against the Baltimore and Ohio that Simon Cameron put the depot and yards of the new line on the Smithsonian grounds, where they are to-day, an unsightly blemish. The Baltimore and Ohio depot at first was in Pennsylvania avenue, where Tilber Creek crossed it. In a cupola on the depot was a bell which rang five minutes before trains left. As it rang the street presented a lively appearance, with scores of passengers running to catch the train. Washington clung to the B. & O. through the war as the drowning man to a straw. The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun from whom we have quoted thus far recalls to mind that for five days in 1861 even that straw was gone, and it was not known whether the North would come to the rescue of the Capital. Then Gen. Butler's Eighth Massachusetts men put together the scattered parts of an old locomotive at Annapolis and the world moved a little nearer Washington. All the B. & O. engines and cars had been taken over to Baltimore by the elder Garrett's orders, but there was one old switch engine, and that went out to meet Butler's men. As it drew up at the junction a young man leaped off the tender. He had a rifle in his hands and he was black with smoke and cinders. "I was put out there to shoot that engineer if he stopped on the road or refused to stop when he reached here, and I would have done it if he had." That young man with the gun was afterward known to the world as Boss Shepherd. From that day on, Washington has had railroad communication with the outside world. All through the war there was but a single track to tear up to isolate the city. The double track to Baltimore was laid during the war, but there was but a single track over the bridge at the Relay Station. The double tracking of the road was delayed for years by losses sustained from depredations by the Confederates from Harper's Ferry on to Cumberland. The history of the road is a large part of the history of Washington.

DR. WOOSTER BEACH, writing of the death penalty and the proper mode of carrying it out with a view of causing painless death, concludes that if we wish to take life by hanging in the most speedy, certain and painless manner, we must adopt the plan of putting the rope around the neck of the man and slowly drawing him up, instead of the "drop" method now in use; but in this slow suspension method "it is important that the noose be carefully placed, so that on tightening it shall constrict the parts necessary to entirely cut off respiration; that it is just above the larnyx." Chloroform, prussic acid poisoning, fatal electric shocks, and other methods have been proposed as substitutes for hanging, but until the death penalty shall have been abolished, or some other method than hanging adopted, it is well to study and make known the most "scientific" way of doing it. Bungling the operation is unnecessary brutally.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

The Wabash Celebrates the Fourth of July with Low Rates.

As the Fourth of July, the Nation's birthday, is near at hand, and everyone thinking where to go spend the holiday, the advantages offered by the Wabash railway should not be overlooked. Now is the time to make up excursion parties, and to enjoy a holiday pleasantly. The Fourth of July falls on Monday this year, giving everyone two days of leisure, and the Wabash railway has made a rate of one fare for the round trip between all stations, except from stations north of Oriand to stations south of Edwardsville Junction, and vice versa, to enable those who desire to take a trip for pleasure or recreation, to do so cheaply. The trip can be made without fatigue, as the coaches, Free Reclining Chair cars and Palace Sleeping cars run on the Wabash are of the latest pattern, and as easy and comfortable to ride in as can be imagined. Tickets will be on sale at all stations along the Wabash railway, July 2d, 3d and 4th, and will be good for return passage up to and incuding July 5th, 1887. 24-8t.

MANUFACTURED BY

J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Philadelphia. Pa.

I was afflicted for several years with disordered liver, which resulted in a severe attack of jaundice. I had as good medical attendance as our section affords, who failed utterly to restore me to the enjoyment of my former good health. I then tried the favorite prescription of one of the most renowned physicians of Louisville, Ky., but to no purpose; whereupon I was induced to try Simmons Liver Regulator. I found immediate benefit from its use, and it ultimately restored me to the full enjoyment of health.

The Contents of Slender Purses, If Invested at the Store of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., Will Go as Far as Those of Fat Purses Invested Elsewhere.

Within a very few years we have won the undisputed lead in the Furniture and Carpet trade of Fort Wayne. We have accomplished this:

By Our Low Prices,
By Our Immense Stock,
By the Quality of Our Goods,
By Our System Of Fair Dealing.

The immense patronage we have enjoyed from towns adjacent to Fort Wayne has been a decided benefit to every branch of legitimate business; for customers induced to come to this city for Carpets or Furniture, have embraced the opportunity to lay in a supply of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, jewelry, &c. In this indirect way we trust we have been enabled to return something of the obligation we are under to the merchants of Fort Wayne for the many kind recommendations of our establishment they have given their customers and friends.

Notwithstanding the very large business we have secured, we do not think the sales of our immediate competitors have been lessened to any appreciable extent. Sharper competition has simply doubled the amount of Furniture and Carpets sold in Fort Wayne over the years previous.

IN ASHES!

Two Acres of Solid Buildings Destroyed by Fire—Three Men Perish in the Flames.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 25.—The tobacco warehouses of Thomas H. Glover & Co., Sawyer, Wallace & Co., T. B. Parish & Co., and the boarding house of Mrs. Annie Bender, occupying the square between Main and Market and Ninth and Tenth streets, were totally destroyed by fire early this morning, with 3,500 hogsheads of tobacco. The total loss is estimated at $350,000; partially insured.

Later—The entire square between Main and Market and Ninth and Tenth streets, containing two acres of buildings, with their contents are lost. The loss is estimated at fully a half million dollars. The insurance cannot be obtained as the papers are in the safes and mixed up with the debris. The fire was of incendiary origin it is thought. It broke out in the middle of the block, at the rear end of the Market street all of the Boone warehouse.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 25.—Fire last night totally destroyed the large brick block on the corner of Bay and Clay streets, occupied by Clark and Loftus, furniture, Watson and Co., drugs, and Sables Bros., leather. Loss $50,000; insurance about $30,000. It is supposed three men were in the building trying to save goods when the walls crashed in and they were killed. Their names are unknown. Six others were hurt from the same cause, but none fatally.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

They are to Have a Grand Celebration and Picnic in This City July 4th.

The Knights of Labor will hold a grand celebration and picnic at Vordermark's grove, in the eastern end of the city of Fort Wayne, July 4th. Hon. Thomas Blair and other able speakers will address the multitude. A band of music will be present and a dancing platform has been erected. There will be refreshment stands, but no intoxicating liquors will be sold on the grounds. The best of order will be preserved. It is a "workingman's" picnic and a cordial invitation is extended to the public in general to attend. There will be ball-playing, wheel barrow racing, greased pigs will be turned loose and prizes given to those catching them. Good swings will be on the grounds. There will be slippery pole climbing and a game of foot-ball. Target practice will be indulged in. Innocent games of all kinds will abound. In short, it will be a regular old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. All persons will be admitted to the grounds free. Neighboring assemblies K. of L. are cordially invited to participate.

By order of the Committee.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.

Very Rev. J. H. Brammer Voted the Costly Chalice Last Night.

The attendance at the Fair last night was the greatest yet and the friendly contest for the costly chalice accounted for it. The interest was intense and Very Rev. Father Brammer has great reason to be proud of his loyal friends, because when the voting ceased he was the happy possessor of the gold chalice, fashioned after the famous cardinal's cup. The vote stood as follows: Rev. E. Koenig, 6,282; Very Rev. J. H. Brammer, 16,343; Rev. J. H. Oechtering, 1,586; Rev. A. Messman, 100, realizing for the fair the handsome sum of $2,431.15. The distinguished priest was loudly cheered and responded in words laden with blessings for the substantial tokens of friendship bestowed upon him.

The contest for the engineer's kit closes on Monday evening at 11 o'clock.

The young ladies' contest closes tonight.

THE WABASH.

Important Changes Predicted in the Freight Department.

Receiver McNulty, General Superintendent Wade, Superintendent Stevens and General Passenger Agent Knight, of the Wabash, were at Toledo yesterday. They came in on a tour of inspection and left at noon for Peru, Ind. It is understood that the real object of the present tour is a contemplated change in the entire Wabash freight department. It is asserted that James Smith will retire from the position of general traffic manager, and that office will be abolished. It is also said that Samuel Smith, assistant general freight agent, will resign and that W. H. Knight, division freight and passenger agent, at Detroit, will succeed him. Milton Knight, of Chicago, is spoken of as the future general freight agent of the road.

The visit to Peru will, it is said, result in important changes there. Those who know say that the Wabash Western railroad will connect with the main line at Logansport instead of at Peru, as heretofore. Other important changes are contemplated.

The officials of the Wabash while at Toledo are understood to have made several big contracts with the Smith Bridge company for bridges at different points along the line. The officers of both companies spent considerable time in examining plans and specifications.

A Cleveland Assignment.

CLEVELAND, June 25.—Messrs. E. A. Crumb and George O. Baslington bankers and brokers assigned this morning. The failure grows out of the wheat panic in Chicago. The persons for whom Crumb and Baslington were doing business failed to meet the claims on them and the present step is taken to protect the creditors

Short in His Accounts.

COSHOCTON, Ohio, July 25.—William M. Buckiew, assistant postmaster at Coshocton, was arrested to-day, charged with being short in his accounts with the government. He was taken to Columbus for trial before the United States commissioner. The amount charged against him is $2,200.

AMONG THE SHOPS.

Items of Interest Gathered up and Recorded for the Benefit of the Men in These Busy Industries.

The last working day of the week is always hailed with delight by every employe in the manufacturing establishments of the city. To them the coming of Sunday means a day of rest. Six days spent in hard and earnest toil entitles them to a seventh in which the toils, the cares and the anxieties of the week are laid aside, and they are permitted to spend it at their homes enjoying, to its fullest extent, the comforts and happiness of domestic life. Some no doubt, pass the day of rest in a manner that is injurious to them and when they return to their work on Monday morning, the day's cessation from toil has not benefitted them, but if it is passed in a Christian way, as a large number of them do, they will start into their new week's work with a renewed zeal. This is the way it should be and THE SENTINEL hopes that to-morrow the Sabbath day will be so passed.

AT THE BASS FOUNDRY AND MACHINE WORKS.

The east end moulding rooms presented a busy scene this morning.

The works received several car loads of pig iron this morning for their own use.

The frame work for the new addition to the shops on Wallace street is now almost up and the building will progress rapidly.

Miss Mary Pickard, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, is visiting Supt. T. R. Pickard, of 106 East Washington street. She is passing the summer in the city and will remain the guest of the family for several weeks yet.

John McKean, one of the [illegible] left to-day for Rome City, where he [illegible] remain until Tuesday enjoying the pleasures of that resort with his mother and sisters, who have a cottage rented there for the summer.

AT THE PITTSBURG SHOPS.

Barney Fitzpatrick, the genial foreman of the machine shops, is on the sick list.

A new engine, No. 320, of class B, left the shops this morning on its first trip. It will be used on this division of the road.

W. H. Polhamus, the road foreman's clerk, left to-day, with his wife, for Valparaiso, where they will spend the Sabbath.

Joseph Singmaster, a coppersmith, went to Petosky yesterday as a delegate to the convention of the insurance branch of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, which convenes there to-day.

The masons are at work building additions to several of the chimneys of the shops.

The floors of the locomotive engine rooms have been repaired.

Of the sixty-one employes of the Pennsylvania company arrested with so much flourish of trumpets a short time ago for robbing the cars of the company, but three remain in custody, the rest having been discharged.

Some idea of the amount of fuel that is used in running a railroad can be formed from the last monthly report of the Pittsburg road, which our reporter was allowed to glance at this morning in Roadmaster Polhamus' office. The report shows the amount of coal and wood used on this division of the road, between Chicago and Crestline, by the frieght and passenger locomotives only, and does not embrace that used in the shops and at stations along the road for other purposes. The amount of coal used during the month of May was 10,500 tons and the wood 375 cords, so that by placing a low price on each of these, the fuel bill for running the locomotives alone would be about $25,000 a month.

The big duplex engine that the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago is testing is performing very successfully. On Tuesday a run of nine and a half miles was made in ten minutes, and another run of eight and a half miles was made in eight minutes. She carried 173 pounds of steam, against 125 pounds carried by most road engines, and the train consisted of ten coaches and Pullman cars.

Will Release About $9,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Fairchild this afternoon telegraphs to all the assistant treasurers directing the payment of the July interest checks and coupons upon presentation. The effect of this will be to release from the subtreasurer about $9,000,000.

LOCAL NEWS.

There were no decisions in the superior court to-day.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. A. C. Huestis is very dangerously ill.

Frank Rudolph, of Fort Wayne, was yesterday granted a pension at Washington.

An alarm from box 62 called the department to Brinsley's feed yard, on Pearl street, where a fire was in progress.

The Pennsylvania railroad lines west of Pittsburg show an increase in net earnings in the month of May over those of the corresponding month, 1886, of $904,000.

Mr. John Tremmel, a bright young gentleman who is studying for the priesthood at St. Francis seminary, at Milwaukee, is the guest of his parents, Officer and Mrs. John Tremmell.

Chas. Rose, who was sued by H. H. Bossler for $19, was acquitted by Justice Harding to-day. The prosecution claimed that he had given Rose a $20 gold piece in mistake for $1, hence the suit.

Judge O'Rourke recorded these decisions this afternoon: Henry Sunderland vs. Henry Meyer. Judgment for $228.81; Paul Koehler vs. Adolph Farin. Dismissed; Lemuel C. Paine vs. Samuel Brown et al. Dismissed; Joseph L. Darling vs. D. H. Baldwin & Co. Judgement deferred.

John Kelly, who was sentenced to six months in jail for assault on old man Wolf at New Haven, did not appear in the circuit court to-day to renew his bond of $500 and it is declared forfeited. His father is surety and he will have to pay the amount unless Judge O'Rourke rescinds the order at the next term of court in September. The young man will also have to serve his jail sentence.

Unless something new is developed in regard to Cora Lee in the coming trial of Mrs. Molloy it is not likely that she will be tried again. The sentiment of the community seems to be rather in her favor, and, though many people about Springfield believe that she and Mrs. Molloy are guilty of participation in the murder of Sarah Graham, it is not probable that a verdict can be found against either.

Two PENSIONS with arrears, recently issued by the Pension Bureau, are said to be the largest ever paid. One was to Francis Patterson, formerly of Company G, One Hundred and Fifty-fourth New York Infantry, who is totally blind. He is to receive $[illegible], and $72 a month as long as he lives. The other is to Walter S. Stephens, formerly of Company A, Eighty first Ohio Infantry. He is insane. He will receive $12,346, and $72 a month.

MORE STEADY.

A Better Outlook in the New York Stock Market, and No Panic Is Now Anticipated.

NEW YORK, June 25.—The worst feature of the decline in the stock market was over by noon yesterday and by 1 o'clock the market again subsided into the usual midsummer dullness.

Wall street was puzzled to account for the fact that a decline could occur without dragging down some of the "bull" houses, which have been carrying a large list of stocks; but it is explained by reports that Gould, Field, Vanderbilt and Philadelphia capitalists had taken up the stocks which were in weak hands and relieved the holders of the necessity of sacrificing them. Cyrus W. Field said he had taken 7,000,000 shares of Manhattan stocks.

The following review was issued by Henry Clews & Co.:

The surge in the market should not have been uneasy, as every day for a fortnight or more past we are on record as predicting just such a backset as Wall street has now met with. The effect will be beneficial, as it will prevent a more serious settlement. If the day of reconing had been deferred to the crop moving season instead of yesterday, further trouble must have resulted here and elsewhere.

12:30 p. m.—The market for stocks opened higher than last night's closing prices, Manhattan's first sale being 139 against 135 last night. There was no vestige of yesterday's panic apparent and although the market was for a while ragged the roughness soon wore away, and it is now steady in nearly all cases at an advance of from one to three per cent. Money is offered freely at six per cent. by some parties that were credited with forcing up the rates yesterday.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Wheat, opened ⅛ to ¼ lower and later recovered part of the decline; No. 2 red June, 91½ @92c. Corn, ⅛@½c lower, dull, mixed, 46⅞@47¼. Oats, shade easier, dull, 33 @41c.

TOLEDO, June 25.—Wheat, lower, quiet, 81½c. Corn, steady, 38½c. Clover seed, steady, $4 25.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Wheat steady, 69¾. Corn, easy at 35⅞c. Oats, easy, at 24½c. Rye, 51c. Barley, nothing doing. Timothy, prime, $2 10. Flax seed, $1 22.

DO WE WANT IT?

Blackford County Wants to Send Fort Wayne Its Winter Gas Fuel.

The Hartford City Telegram is teeming with gas news from that city and Montpelier this week. It says: "Supt. W. W. Worthington and Hon. R. C. Bell, of Fort Wayne, were in town again on Tuesday. It is very evident that the gentlemen are stuck on our wonderful gas well.—Prof Gorby is firmly of the opinion that Montpelier is in the oil belt and said: 'I would go deeper and make an oil well of this, and bore again for gas.' Mr. Hattersly, of Fort Wayne, one of the stockholders, was down on Monday and adjusted a separator which divides the gas from the oil.—Now that we have a great deal more gas than can be used in this place, the question naturally arises, 'Cannot we supply some of the larger cities that have no natural gas.' The only city of any considerable size that gas could be piped to is Fort Wayne. The great manufacturing interests there, not to consider the large population that would use it for fuel, would warrant the organization of a company for the purpose of laying pipes and supplying Fort Wayne with that much needed article. It is the opinion of the Telegram that if Fort Wayne people fully understood the situation they would look only to Blackford county for a supply of gas."

The most flattering recognition of the usefulness of the wheel came from a most prominent business house of this city, which last week raised the salary of an employe $2 a month. He had considerable outdoor work to do for the firm and did it on his wheel, which his employers told him made him that more valuable to them in the saving of car fare, the economizing of time, etc.—Spectator.

Yesterday morning our bicycle editor had a very pleasant chat with Messrs. J. W. Lutz and W. C. Farmenter, two prominent wheelmen of Lima, Ohio, who are touring it to Hutchinson, Kas., via Chicago. A DOUBLE MURDER!

A Human Fiend of Stark County, Ohio, Butchers His Wife and Her Step-son With a Hatchet.

CLEVELAND, June 25.—At North Industry, a small village in Stark county, Ohio, yesterday afternoon, Conrad Doll, a coal miner, killed his wife and step-son with a hatchet. The murder was a horrible one. A large posse is out in pursuit of the murderer and it is hinted that if caught he will be lynched. Yesterday Doll found a letter written by another man to his wife, in which statements compromising the woman were made. This led to the murder. A letter left by Doll states that he intended to kill his wife and step-son and then commit suicide.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

In a letter from a German physician, who is a resident of Brazil, it is stated that permanganate of potash is as infallible an antidote for snake bites in that country as in India, and that every farmer keeps some of it in his dwelling.

OWING to the increased electrical intensity of the atmosphere, which is induced by the continual evolution of steam and smoke, Dr. Andries estimates that the danger from lightning is from three to five times greater than it was fifty years ago.

THE human hair varies in thickness from 1-250 to 1-600 of an inch. Blonde hair is the finest and red the coarsest. A German investigator finds that in four heads of hair of equal weight the red one contains about 90,000 hairs, the black 103,000, the brown 109,000, and the blonde 140,000.

THE ingredients of many of the fire extinguishers now before the public are said to be eight pounds carbonate of soda, four pounds alum, three pounds borax, one pound carbonate of potash, and twenty-four pounds silicate of soda solution, these being, of course, mixed together; one and one-half pounds of this mixture are added to each gallon of water when required for use, the timeliness of application constituting the important feature in the matter of efficiency.

THE frothy substance which is often found on grass, and popularly known as "frog-spittle," has no connection with that animal. It is caused by a little insect which secretes a viscid, transparent fluid, with which he is completely covered. To enable him to breathe, he reaches out a pair of legs, and, enclosing a little bubble of air, brings it down, and afterward allows it to escape into the liquid. After a while the numerous bubbles convert it completely into froth, or a substance resembling saliva.

WOOD oil is made on a large scale in Sweden from the refuse of timber cuttings and forest clearings, and from stumps and roots; and, although it cannot well be burned in common lamps on account of the heavy proportion of carbon it contains, it furnishes a satisfactory light in lamps especially made for it, and in its natural state is said to be the cheapest of illuminating oils. Thirty factories produce about 40,000 liters of the oil daily; turpentine, creosote, acetic acid, charcoal, coal tar oils, and other useful substances are also obtained from the same materials.

TAKE it as a rule, the most violent poisons, and the substances that produce the most deleterious effects on the human system, are from the vegetable kingdom. The mineral drugs which may cause harm are few in number, and, if we except arsenic, are not especially violent poisons. There is a considerable amount of poisoning from lead, but not through its medicinal uses; and the same may be said at the present time of mercury. In fine, it is the purely vegetable drugs which are the most dangerous, because it is these which stimulate the brain or benumb the senses, induce morbid habits, and eventually establish physical degeneration. We wish that the public could be made to understand this, when it is confronted with alluring notices of the perfect safety and harmlessness of "purely vegetable" drugs.

"Tell you I wouldn't have it."

"But I'm sure you would——"

"Wouldn't, no use for it, never eat ice cream."

"But it only costs $1.50, and perhaps——"

"No perhaps about it, wouldn't take your freezer as a gift."

"Well, I have another scheme here. I am selling tickets for a drawing on the [illegible]. There are one hun[illegible] tickets at a dollar apiece."

"Well, that's [illegible] like it. Put my name down for two tickets. This is a speculation and I always go in on anything of that sort."—Dakota Bell.

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1887.

A FEW months ago a farmer in Liberty County, Georgia, planted a patch of potatoes, using as a fertilizer trash, sand, etc., from a house infested with fleas. When he peeled the potatoes to eat, it was with difficulty that he could remain in the vicinity of the patch long enough to dig them on account of the immense quantities of fleas there. They had actually lived and thrived for months far under ground.

A SNAIL'S pace need not be used any longer as a term more or less indefinite. By an interesting experiment at the Terre Haute Polytechnic the other day it was ascertained exactly and reduced to figures, which may now be quoted by persons who favor the use of exact terms. A half dozen of the mollusks were permitted to crawl between two points ten feet apart, and the average pace was ascertained. From this it was easy enough to calculate that one snail can crawl a mile in just fourteen days.

TENNESSEE has two streams called Daddy and Mammy creeks. They were named away back when the State was first settled. A husband and wife riding along on horseback began quarreling, and when they arrived at the first stream the former soundly cuffed his wife. He then named the stream Daddy Creek. They jogged along still quarreling till they came to the second creek, when the woman picked up the limb of a tree and felled her companion, and triumphantly named the water Mammy Creek.

IN February last Perry Lampman, an old widower residing in Orange, Ionia County, Michigan, deeded his farm of forty acres to Mrs. Eunice Wright, in conformity with an agreement between them that Mrs. Wright should marry him after he had so deeded the farm. After getting the deed she concluded she didn't want to marry him, while she was so reluctant to deed back the land that a suit has been begun to set aside the deed, and a special guardian has been appointed for the innocent old chap.

HERE are a few items regarding the royal yachts which may prove interesting to the British taxpayer. The original cost of the Victoria and Albert was about £126,000, and she has since had spent on her over £300,000. The Osborne's original cost was about £105,000, and she has had about £112,000 expended on her. The Alberta's original cost was £27,000, with a subsequent expenditure of £68,000. The Elfin's original cost was £6,000, the subsequent expenditure being over £40,000. Besides these interesting items the annual pay of the officers and crews of the royal yachts is close upon £50,000.

A LITTLE boy in Philadelphia was flying a kite on the housetop. Another lad two or three houses away was engaged in the same diversion. One opened his mouth to call to the other, and just then a flock of swallows came flying by. One of them, evidently confused, flew against the boy's face, driving his bill clean through his cheek. In his agony the lad closed his teeth hard and held the bird fast. The swallow was partly stunned by the shock, and, with the bird sticking out from his cheek, the lad ran down-stairs to his mother. She removed the bird and it now occupies a handsome cage in the house, and its owner wouldn't part with it under any consideration.

DR. TALMAGE says: "I once occupied the novel position of sitting in a pew in my own church listening to a minister preaching to my own congregation one of my own sermons. No, not from notes. It had been memorized, and I don't imagine that the brother knew whose sermon he was repeating. Sermons go the rounds sometimes without name and are taken up and preached in that way. My wife listened to one of my sermons preached verbatim. The President of the Wesleyan Conference of Australia informed me a couple of years ago that a minister had been dismissed from the conference for preaching one of my sermons—not because it was a sermon of mine, but because he had claimed it as one of his own."

FIFTY years ago there was not an electric railway in practical operation in the country, while to-day there are more than a dozen, with every prospect that there will be a hundred within the next two years. Experts do not hesitate to predict the speedy displacement of the horse as a motor for cars in cities, and one authority believes that the change from horses to electricity will soon be on as fast as the electric plants can be manufactured. Step by step the dynamo has so improved that the work which it costs $8 to do with steam power and $6.50 to do with horses can be done by electricity for $4. Even if electricity were no cheaper than horses the change would be for the better. The streets will be cleaner; there will be fewer great city stables to pollute the air and expose the city to destruction by fire.

JOE MULHATTON, famous as the originator of a hundred mountainous stories, is living now in Louisville. He is a queer fellow, a successful commercial traveler, one who never drinks nor smokes, and who is not worth a thousand dollars. He gives away his money. "He can't help it," said a friend; "he has to empty his pockets when he runs upon any pitiable case." Mulhatton's one weakness is his fancy for telling awful lies in print. He will work for a month upon some fabrication not a quarter of a column in length until he has given it a tone of ingenuousness which makes it travel. A Mr. Peters, Mulhatton's old employer, showed a letter the other day from the eccentric fellow in which he inclosed a printed slip bearing his latest story. It was of a man in Kentucky who had trained monkeys to pick hemp, and has had a great run through the press within the last three months. "They are awful stories," said Mr. Peters, "but they afford the only place where Joe will lie. I'd take his word in a business way for any amount."

BEN BUTLER recently delivered the annual address to the graduating class of the law school of the Boston University. After telling them to get their pay in advance, never disclose the secret of a client, and by all means win their first cases, he added a few points which will interest the casual reader of newspapers. "The first duty of the young lawyer," said Gen. Butler, "is absolute fidelity to one's client. The lawyer is the adviser and director of his client in all his business affairs. You are to do for him as he would do for himself did he possess your learning and talents. Some say, 'Oh, you must not defend a guilty man.' Why not? Wouldn't he defend himself? You must defend him as fully and as honorably as if you knew him innocent. If you knew him innocent, it often unfits even the strongest man for the task of defense. I never wish to defend a man unless I know he is guilty. Be sure that you find out that he is guilty. Some men dislike to confess their crime to the lawyer for fear that then he will not undertake the case. You must establish a feeling of confidence with each. Let them know that you must have all the facts. Never allow yourself to state to the jury that your client is innocent. It is your business to act as if it were so. If you know nothing about the circumstances you are like an ass jumping around in a tanyard, not knowing where the pits are."

Up a Tall Tree in Borneo.

The Hill Dyaks of Borneo are expert climbers. Mr. Hornaby, while collecting specimens of natural history, saw a Dyak ascend a large tapang tree, five feet in diameter at the base, straight as a ship's mast, and without the smallest limb or knot for 120 feet up.

The man went up the tree to secure a bees' nest hanging from the under side of the lowest limb. The nest was simply a large, naked, triangular piece of white comb.

A Dyak "ladder" had been put up the previous year, and reached from the ground to the branches. It consisted of seven 25-foot bamboo poles held almost end to end alongside the trunk by sharp pegs driven into the soft wood about two feet apart.

The pegs were driven first on one side of the poles and then on the other, and to them the bamboos were lashed by rattans, which held them firmly about eight inches from the tree. These pegs served as the rungs of the ladder.

The builder must have been a bold man, with nerves of steel. He was obliged to let the ends of the poles overlap a few feet in order to build the ladder with safety to himself.

The completion of the ladder was most difficult. Clinging to the slight bamboo pole, 100 feet from the ground, he hauled up the last bamboo, twenty feet long, drove in the peg, lashed the lower end of the pole to it, and then ascended that shaking bamboo to fasten it at the top.

The Dyak honey-hunter fastened to his back a basket to receive the honey. Making up his torch-wood, with which to smoke the bees out of the nest and away from himself, he ignited it, slung it by a cord from his neck, so that it would hang below his feet, and started up the slender "ladder."

Hand and foot he went up, peg after peg, with a nonchalant ease which would have done credit to the most daring of sailors. Even that sailor would have been pardoned if he was a little shaky while climbing a tall factory chimney by the lightning-rod.

On reaching the lower limb, 120 feet from the ground, he took his torch in one hand, waved it to and fro until it smoked freely, and then crawled out along the bare branch until he was in reach of the coveted nest.

Examining it first on one side, and then on the other, he shouted down as cheerfully as if his climb had been nothing, "No honey!"

Leaving the comb untouched, he descended with a smile, and reached the ground without the least tremor.—Youth's Companion.

Delicate persons, and all whose systems have become debilitated, should bear in mind that Simmons Liver Regulator is not a drastic, purging medicine, does not weaken or deplete the system as other purgatives do, but acts gently. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to leave to intemperance; will promote digestion dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system.

Hon. Alex. H. Stephens, of Ga., says: "Simmons Liver Regulator is mild and suits me better than more active remedies."

OPPORTUNITY is in respect to time, in some sense, as time is in respect to eternity; it is the small moment, the exact point, the critical minute, on which every good work so much depends.—Sprat.

The learned and eminent scholar, Andrew D. White, ex president of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., writes under date Dec. 2, 1886: "Long experience has taught my family to prize Pond's Extract very highly, and to regard it as one of the absolute necessities of housekeeping." Such testimony should induce all families to at least try Pond's Extract; an invaluable remedy for all pains and hemorrhages.

MR. MULHALL, the noted statistician, who is connected in some capacity with Lord Randolph Churchill, has just published a jubilee book entitled "Fifty Years of National Progress." This book shows that while all other portions of the British Empire have prospered Ireland has retrograded. Under the heading, "Ireland," for instance, occurs this significant passage: The present reign has been the most disastrous since Elizabeth, as the following statistics show: Died of famine, 1,225,000; persons evicted, 3,668,000; number of emigrants, 4,186,000. Evictions were more numerous immediately after the famine, the landlords availing themselves of the period of greatest calamity to enforce their rights. Official returns give the number of families, and these averaging seven persons, we ascertain the actual number of persons evicted—

Years.	Families.	Persons.
1849-'51	263,000	1,841,000
1852-'60	110,000	770,000
1861-'70	47,000	329,000
1871-'80	104,000	728,000
Total	524,000	3,668,000

The number of persons evicted is equal to 75 per cent. of the actual population. No country, either in Europe or elsewhere, has suffered such wholesale extermination. And the blood-letting still goes on. Truly the Irishmen have reason to throw up their hats and toast good Queen Victoria this jubilee year!

VITIATED BLOOD.

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

THROUGH the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, Druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your Cuticura Remedies, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding to you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your Cuticura Remedies a trial.

P. S. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed, was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, used them, and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. Crawford.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your Cuticura Remedies for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw cured by the use of five bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, Cuticura and Cuticura Soap. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

TAYLOR & TAYLOR, Druggist, Frankfort, Kan.

SCROFULOUS INHERITED,

And contagious humors, with loss of hair, and eruptions of the skin, are positively cured by Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Cuticura Resolvent internally, when all other medicines fail. Send for pamphlet.

DRUGGISTS USE THEM.

We have obtained satisfactory results from the use of Cuticura Remedies in our own family, and recommend them beyond any blood. The demand for them grows as their merits become known.

Choking Catarrh

Have you awakened from a disturbed sleep with all the horrible sensations of an assassin clutching your throat and pressing the life-breath from your tightened chest? Have you noticed the languor and debility that succeed the effort to clear your throat and head of this catarrhal matter? What a depressing influence it exerts upon the mind, clouding the memory and filling the head with pains and strange noises! How difficult it is to rid the nasal passages, throat and lungs of this poisonous mucus all can testify who are afflicted with catarrh. How difficult to protect the system against its further progress towards the lungs, liver and kidneys, all physicians will admit. It is a terrible disease, and cries out for relief and cure.

The remarkable curative powers, when all other remedies utterly fail, of Sanford's Radical Cure, are attested by thousands who gratefully recommend it to fellow-sufferers. No statement is made regarding it that cannot be substantiated by the most respectable and reliable references.

Each packet contains one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent and an Improved Inhaler, with treatise and directions, and sold by all druggists for $1.00.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"So the Waters Were Healed to This Day," is the Subject.

BROOKLYN, June 19.—This morning at the Tabernacle the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage read, previous to the sermon, portions of Scripture descriptive of ancient cities and gave out the hymn:

"Fields are white, the harvest waiting;
Who will bear the sheaves away?"

His text was, "And the men of the city said unto Elisha, Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my Lord seeth; but the water is naught, and the ground barren. And he said, Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him. And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said, thus said the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land. So the waters were healed unto this day." II. Kings ii, 19-22.

Dr. Talmage said: It is difficult to estimate how much of the prosperity and health of a city are dependent upon good water. The time when through well laid pipes and from safe reservoir an abundance of water from Croton or Ridgewood or Schuylkill brought into the city is appropriately celebrated with oration and pyrotechnic display. Thank God every day for clear, bright, beautiful sparkling water as it drops in the shower or tosses up in the fountain or rushes out of the hydrant.

The city of Jericho, notwithstanding all its physical and commercial advantages, was lacking in this important element. There was enough water, but it was diseased, and the people were crying out by reason thereof. Elisha, the prophet, comes to the rescue. He says: "Get me a new cruse; fill it with salt and bring it to me." So the cruse of salt was brought to the prophet, and I see him walking out to the general reservoir, and he takes that salt and throws it into the reservoir, and lo! all the impurities depart, through a supernatural and divine influence, and the waters are good and fresh and clear, and all the people clap their hands and lift up their faces in the gladness. Water for Jericho—clear, bright, beautiful, God given water.

At different times I have pointed out to you the fountains of municipal corruption, and this morning I propose to show you what are the means for the rectification of these fountains. There are four or five kinds of salt that have a cleansing tendency. So far as God may help me, I shall bring a cruse of salt to the work, and empty it into the great reservoir of municipal crime, sin and shame, ignorance and abomination.

In this work of cleansing our cities, I have first to remark that there is a work for the broom and the shovel that nothing else can do. There always has been an intimate connection between iniquity and dirt. The filthy parts of the great cities are always the most iniquitous parts. The gutters and the pavements of the Fourth ward, New York, illustrate and symbolize the character of the people in the Fourth ward.

The first thing that a bad man does when he is converted is thoroughly to wash himself. There were, this morning, on the way to the different churches, thousands of men in proper apparel who, before their conversion, were unfit in their Sabbath dress. When on the Sabbath I see a man uncleanly in his dress, my suspicions in regard to his moral character are aroused, and they are always well founded. So as to allow no excuse for lack of ablution, God has cleft the continents with rivers and lakes, and has sunk five great oceans, and all the world ought to be clean. Away, then, with the dirt from our cities, not only because the physical health needs an ablution, but because all the great moral and religious interests of the cities demand it as a positive necessity. A filthy city always has been and always will be a wicked city.

Through the upturning of the earth for great improvement our city could not be expected to be as clean as usual, but for the illimitable dirt of Brooklyn for the last six months there is no excuse. It is not merely a matter of dust in the eyes, and mud for the shoes, and of stench for the nostrils, but of morals for the soul.

Another corrective influence that we would bring to bear upon the evils of our great cities is a Christian printing press. The newspapers of any place are the test of its morality or immorality. The newsboy who runs along the streets with a roll of papers under his arm is a tremendous force that cannot be turned aside nor resisted, and at his every step the city is elevated or degraded. This hungry, all-devouring American mind must have something to read, and upon editors and authors and book publishers and parents and teachers rests the responsibility of what they shall read. Almost every man you meet has a book in his hand or a newspaper in his pocket. What book is it you have in your hand? What newspaper is it you have in your pocket? Ministers may preach, reformers may plan, philanthropists may toil for the elevation of the suffering and the criminal, but until all the newspapers of the land and all the booksellers of the land set themselves against an iniquitous literature—until then we shall be fighting against fearful odds. Every time the cylinders of our great publishing houses turn they make the earth quake. From them goes forth a thought like an angel of light to feed and bless the world, or like an angel of darkness to smite it with corruption and sin and shame and death. May God by His omnipotent spirit purify and elevate the American printing press!

I go on farther and say we must depend upon the school for a great deal of correcting influence. A community can no more afford to have ignorant men in its midst than it can afford to have uncaged hyenas. Ignorance is the mother of hydra-headed crime. Thirty-one per cent. of all the criminals of New York State can neither read nor write. Intellectual darkness is generally the precursor of moral darkness. I know there are educated outlaws—men who, through their sharpness of intellect, are made more dangerous. They use their fine penmanship in signing other people's names, and their science in ingenious burglaries, and their fine manners in adroit libertinism. They go their round of sin with well-cut apparel, and dangling jewelry, and watches of eighteen karats, and kid gloves. They are refined, educated, magnificent villains. But that is the exception. It is generally the case that the criminal classes are as ignorant as they are wicked. For the proof of what I say, go into the prisons and the penitentiaries, and look upon the men and women incarcerated. The dishonesty in the eye, the low passion in the lip, are not more conspicuous than the ignorance in the forehead. The ignorant classes are always the dangerous classes. Demagogues marshal them. They are helmless, and are driven before the gale.

It is high time that all city and State authority, as well as the Federal Government, appreciate the awful statistics that, while years ago in this country there was set apart 45,000,000 acres of land for school purposes, there are now in New England [illegible] people who can neither read nor write, and in the State of Pennsylvania [illegible] who can neither read nor write, and [illegible] State of New York [illegible] who can [illegible] read nor write, while in the United States there are nearly [illegible] who can [illegible] read nor write. Statistics [illegible] and [illegible] man who [illegible] his country. Now, [illegible] I am in favor of [illegible]. When parents are so [illegible] to the child, [illegible] with a strong hand, at the [illegible], a gentle hand, ought to [illegible] little ones into the field of [illegible] good morals. It was a [illegible] when [illegible] our city a [illegible] stand. That was well done, beautifully done. But, oh! these thousands of little ones through our streets who are crying for the bread of knowledge and intelligence. Shall we not give it to them? The officers of the law ought to go down into the cellars, and up into the garrets, and bring out these benighted little ones and put them under educational influences; after they have passed through the bath and under the comb, putting before them the spelling book, and teaching them to read the Lord's Prayer and the sermon on the mount: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven." Our city ought to be father and mother both to these outcast little ones. As a recipe for the cure of much of the woe, and want and crime of our city, I give the words which Thorwaldsen had chiseled on the open scroll in the hand of the statue of John Gutenberg, the inventor of the art of printing: "Let there be light!"

Still further: Reformatory societies are an important element in the rectification of the public fountain. Without calling any of them by name, I refer more especially to those which recognize the physical as well as the moral woes of the world. There was pathos and a great deal of common sense in what the poor woman said to Dr. Guthrie when he was telling her what a very good woman she ought to be. "Oh," she said, "if you were as hungry and cold as I am, you could think of nothing else." I believe the great want of our city is the Gospel and something to eat. Faith and repentance are of infinite importance; but they cannot satisfy an empty stomach. You have to go forth in this work with the bread of eternal life in your right hand and the bread of this life in your left hand, and then you can touch them, imitating the Lord Jesus Christ, who first broke the bread and fed the multitude in the wilderness, and then began to preach, recognizing the fact that while people are hungry they will not listen and they will not repent. We want more common sense in the distribution of our charities; fewer magnificent theories, and more hard work.

Still further: The great remedial influence is the gospel of Christ. Take that down through the lanes of suffering. Take that down amid the hovels of sin. Take that up amid the mansions and palaces of your city. That is the salt that can cure all the poisoned fountains of public iniquity. Do you know that in this cluster of three cities, New York, Jersey City, and Brooklyn, there are a great multitude of homeless children? You see I speak more in regard to the youth and the children of the country, because old villains are seldom reformed, and therefore, I talk more about the little ones. They sleep under the stoops, in the burned out safe, in the wagons in the streets, on the barges, wherever they can get a board to cover them. And in the summer they sleep all night long in the parks. Their destitution is well set forth by an incident. A city missionary asked one of them: "Where is your home?" Said he: "I don't have no home, sir." "Well, where are your father and mother?" "They are dead, sir." "Did you ever hear of Jesus Christ?" "No, I don't think I ever heard of him." "Did you ever hear of God?" "Yes, I've heard of God. Some of the poor people think it kind of lucky at night to say something over about that before they go to sleep. Yes, sir, I've heard of him." Think of a conversation like that in a Christian city.

How many are waiting for you to come out in the spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ and rescue them from the wretchedness here! Oh, that the church of God had arms long enough and hearts warm enough to take them up! How many of them there are! As I was thinking of the subject this morning, it seemed to me as though there was a great brink, and that these little ones with cut and torn feet were coming on toward it. And here is a group of orphans. Oh, fathers and mothers, what do you think of those fatherless and motherless little ones? No hand at home to take care of their apparel, no heart to pity them. Said one little one, when the mother died: "Who will take care of my clothes now?" The little ones are thrown out in this great, cold world. They are shivering on the brink like lambs on the verge of a precipice. Does not your blood run cold as they go over it?

And here is another group that come on toward the precipice. They are the children of besotted parents. They are worse off than orphans. Look at that pale cheek; woe blanched it. Look at that gash across the forehead; the father struck it. Hear that heart-piercing cry; a drunken mother's blasphemy compelled it. And we come out and say: "O ye suffering, pealed and blistered ones, we come to help you." "Too late!" cry thousands of voices; "the path we travel is steep down, and we can't stop. Too late." And we catch our breath and make a terrific outcry. "Too late!" is echoed from the garret to the cellar, from the gin shop and from the brothel. "Too late!" It is too late, and they go over.

Here is another group, an army of neglected children. They come on toward the brink, and every time they step 10,000 hearts break. The ground is red with the blood of their feet. The air is heavy with their groans. Their ranks are being filled up from all the houses of iniquity and shame. Skeleton Despair pushes them on toward the brink. The death knell has already begun to toll, and the angels of God hover like birds over the plunge of a cataract. While these children are on the brink they halt, and throw out their hands and cry: "Help! help!" Oh, church of God, will you help? Men and women bought by the blood of the Son of God, will you help? while Christ cries from the heavens: "Save them from going down; I am the ransom."

I stopped on the street and just looked at the face of one of these little ones. Have you ever examined the faces of the neglected children of the poor? Other children have gladness in their faces. When a group of them rush across the road, it seems as though a spring gust had unloosened an orchard of apple blossoms. But these children of the poor. There is but little ring in their laughter, and it stops quick, as though some bitter memory tripped it. They have an old walk. They do not skip or run on the lumber just for the pleasure of leaping down. They never bathed in the mountain stream. They never waded in the brook for pebbles. They never chased the butterfly across the lawn, putting their hat right down where it was just before. Childhood has been dashed out of them. Want waved its wizard wand above the manger of their birth, and withered leaves are lying where God intended a budding giant of battle. Once in a while one of these children gets out. Here is one, for instance. At 10 years of age he is sent out by his parents, who say to him: "Here is a basket; now go off and beg and steal." The boy says: "I can't steal." They kick him into a corner. That night he puts his swollen head into the straw, but a voice comes from heaven, saying: "Courage, poor boy, courage!" Covering up his head from the bestiality, and stopping his ears from the cursing, he gets on up better and better. He washes his face clean at the public hydrant. With a few pennies got at running errands he gets a better coat. Rough men knowing that he comes from a low street, say: "Back with you, you little villain, to the place where you came from." But that night the boy says: "God help me, I can't go back." and quicker than ever mother flew at the cry of a child again, the Lord responds from the heavens: "Courage, poor boy, courage." His bright face gets him a position. After a while he is second clerk. Years pass on, and he is first clerk. Years pass on. The glory of young manhood is on him. He comes into the firm. He goes on from one business success to another. He has achieved great fortune. He is the friend of the church of God, the friend of all good institutions, and one day he stands talking to the board of trade [illegible] chamber of commerce, [illegible] "Do you know who that is? [illegible] that is a merchant prince, and he was [illegible] Elm street." But God wants to [illegible] something better than that [illegible] which came out of [illegible] and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of [illegible] for some one to write the [illegible] of boy heroes and girl heroines who [illegible] want and starvation, and [illegible] and rags! Yes, the record has already been made, made by the hand of God; and when these shall come at last with songs and rejoicing, it will take a very broad banner to hold the names of all the battlefields on which they got the victory.

Some years ago a roughly-clad, ragged boy came into my brother's office in New York and said: "Mr. Talmage, lend me $5." My brother said: "Who are you?" The boy replied: "I am nobody. Lend me $5." "What do you want to do with it?" "Well," the boy replied, "my mother is sick and poor and I want to go into the newspaper business, and I shall get a home for her and will pay you back." My brother gave him the $5, of course never expecting to see it again; but he said: "When will you pay it?" "I will pay it in six months, sir." Time went by, and one day a lad came into my brother's office and said: "There's your $5." "What do you mean? What $5?" inquired my brother. "Don't you remember that a boy came in here six months ago and wanted to borrow $5 to go into the newspaper business?" "Oh, yes, I remember; are you the lad?" "Yes," he replied, "I have got along nicely. I have got a nice home for my mother (she is sick yet) and I am as well clothed as you are, and there's your $5." Oh, was he not worth saving? Why, that lad is worth fifty such boys as I have sometimes seen moving in elegant circles, never good to any one for God or man. Worth saving! I go farther than that and tell you they are not only worth saving but they are being saved. One of these lads picked up from our streets and sent west by a benevolent society wrote east, saying: "I am getting along first rate. I am on probation in the Methodist Church. I shall be entered as a member the 1st of next month. I now teach a Sunday-school class of eleven boys. I get along first rate with it. This is a splendid country to make a living in. If the boys running around the street with a blacking box on their shoulder, or a bundle of papers under their arms, only knew what high old times we boys have out here, they wouldn't hesitate about coming west, but come the first chance they got." So some by one humane and Christian visitation, and some by another, are being rescued. In one reform school, through which 2,000 of the little ones passed, 1,985 turned out well. In other words, only five of the 2,000 turned out badly. There are thousands of them who, through Christian societies, have been transplanted to beautiful homes all over this land, and there are many who, through the rich grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, have already won the crown. A little girl was found in the streets of Baltimore and taken into one of the reform societies, and they said to her: "What is your name?" She said: "My name is Mary." "What is your other name?" She said: "I don't know." So they took her into the reform society, and as they did not know her last name they always called her "Mary Lost," since she had been picked up out of the street. But she grew on, and after awhile the Holy Spirit came to her heart, and she became a Christian child, and she changed her name; and when anybody asked her what her name was she said: "It used to be Mary Lost; but now, since I have become a Christian, it is Mary Found."

For this vast multitude are we willing to go forth from this morning's service and see what we can do, employing all the agencies I have spoken of for the rectification of the poisoned fountains? We live in a beautiful city. The lines have fallen to us in pleasant places and we have a goodly heritage; and any man who does not like a residence in Brooklyn must be a most uncomfortable and unreasonable man. But, my friends, the material prosperity of a city is not its chief glory. There may be fine houses and beautiful streets, and that all be the garniture of a sepulcher. Some of the most prosperous cities of the world have gone down; not one stone left upon another. But a city may be in ruins long before a tower has fallen, or a column has crumbled, or a tomb has been defaced. When in a city the churches of God are full of cold formalities and inanimate religion; when the houses of commerce are the abode of fraud and unholy traffic; when the streets are filled with crime unarrested and sin unenlightened and helplessness unpitied—that city is in ruins, though every church were a St. Peter's and every moneyed institution were a Bank of England and every library were a British museum and every house had a porch like that of Rheims and a roof like that of Amiens and a tower like that of Antwerp and traceried windows like those of Freiburg.

My brethren, our pulses beat rapidly the time away, and soon we shall be gone, and what we have to do for the city in which we live we must do right speedily or never do it at all. In that day when those who have wrapped themselves in luxuries and despised the poor shall come to shame and everlasting contempt, I hope it may be said of you and me that we gave bread to the hungry and wiped away the tear of the orphan and upon the wanderer of the street we opened the brightness and benediction of a Christian home; and then, through our instrumentality it shall be known on earth and in Heaven that Mary Lost became Mary Found!

DOWN IN WASHINGTON.

Interesting Reminiscences of Exciting Times.
Washington Letter.

For years the only way to come to the Capital was over the Baltimore and Ohio, and it is only so far back as 1861 that direct railroad communication between Washington and New York was established. In that year through the efforts of Prescott Smith, the Camden and Amboy road in New Jersey, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, and the Baltimore and Ohio were brought into one consolidated line. A banquet was given in honor of the event at Willard's, and Washington celebrated with great enthusiasm. Then for the first time it was possible to come through without buying one's ticket three or four times over and without rechecking baggage twice. Even that inconvenient way of traveling, which took nearly all day, was looked upon as a marvel of modern improvement, for down in 1852 the journey from New York over to Washington had been by steamer to Amboy, railroad to Bordentown, steamer to Philadelphia, where another steamer took the passenger down the river to Frenchtown, and there stages drove across Delaware, and a steamer made the trip to Baltimore. There the passenger took stage for the Capital. One can go to Omaha or Winnipeg now in less time than was then taken to get over here from New York. For many years after the Baltimore and Ohio connection to New York was effected the road refused to check baggage through to Chicago and the West. This brought the Pennsylvania road into competition, and the Baltimore and Potomac was built into the Capital. The local feeling was so strong against the Baltimore and Ohio that Simon Cameron put the depot and yards of the new line on the Smithsonian grounds, where they are to-day, an unsightly blemish. The Baltimore and Ohio depot at first was in Pennsylvania avenue, where Tiber Creek crossed it. In a cupola on the depot was a bell which rang five minutes before trains left. As it rang the street presented a lively appearance, with scores of passengers running to catch the train. Washington clung to the B. & O. through the war as the drowning man to a straw. The Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, from whom we have quoted thus far recalls to mind that for five days in 1861 even that straw was gone, and it was not known whether the North would come to the rescue of the Capital. Then Gen. Butler's Eighth Massachusetts men put together the scattered parts of an old locomotive at Annapolis and the world moved a little nearer Washington. All the B. & O. engines and cars had been taken over to Baltimore by the elder Garrett's orders, but there was one old switch engine, and that went out to meet Butler's men. As it drew up at the junction a young man leaped off the tender. He had a rifle in his hands and he was black with smoke and cinders. "I was put out there to shoot that engineer if he stopped on the road or refused to stop when he reached here, and I would have done it if he had." That young man with the gun was afterward known to the world as Boss Shepherd. From that day on, Washington has had railroad communication with the outside world. All through the war there was but a single track to tear up to isolate the city. The double track to Baltimore was laid during the war, but there was but a single track over the bridge at the Relay Station. The double tracking of the road was delayed for years by losses sustained from depredations by the Confederates from Harper's Ferry on to Cumberland. The history of the road is a large part of the history of Washington.

DR. WOOSTER BEACH, writing of the death penalty and the proper mode of carrying it out with a view of causing painless death, concludes that if we wish to take life by hanging in the most speedy, certain and painless manner, we must adopt the plan of putting the rope around the neck of the man and slowly drawing him up, instead of the "drop" method now in use, but in this slow suspension method "it is important that the noose be carefully placed, so that in tightening it shall constrict the parts necessary to entirely cut off respiration; that it is just above the larynx." Chloroform, prussic acid poisoning, fatal electric shocks, and other methods have been proposed as substitutes for hanging, but until the death penalty shall have been abolished, or some other method than hanging adopted, it is well to study and make known the most "scientific" way of doing it. Bungling the operation is unnecessary brutality.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

The Wabash Celebrates the Fourth of July with Low Rates.

As the Fourth of July, the Nation's birthday, is near at hand, and everyone thinking where to go spend the holiday, the advantages offered by the Wabash railway should not be overlooked. Now is the time to make up excursion parties, and to enjoy a holiday pleasantly. The Fourth of July falls on Monday this year, giving everyone two days of leisure, and the Wabash railway has made a rate of one fare for the round trip between all stations, except from stations north of Orland to stations south of Edwardsville Junction, and vice versa, to enable those who desire to take a trip for pleasure or recreation, to do so cheaply. The trip can be made without fatigue, as the coaches, Free Reclining Chair cars and Palace Sleeping cars run on the Wabash are of the latest pattern, and as easy and comfortable to ride in as can be imagined. Tickets will be on sale at all stations along the Wabash railway, July 2d, 3d and 4th, and will be good for return passage up to and including July 5th, 1887. 24 St.
